One rainy day we decided to go to an educational school trip to estuaries
of Axios River

We visited the local informational center and we were planning to go out and learn about mussel cultures, but as I mentioned before it was raining heavily.

(It was raining cats and dogs English idiom)

(It was raining chair legs Greek idiom)

So we stayed inside and watched.

some interesting slideshows.

Learned About:

Some of hundreds types of local birds
(endangered species)

Local Mammals

Mussel cultures

It was raining and raining and raining …

We tried to took some photos of the natural environment,

Finally we achieved our goal, which was to learn more about out country's rivers (in Northern Greece)
