This is a story of a boy called Timmy. He was likeable with friends and with his family. Also he was popular in his school.

But one day, he was chatting in the internet when suddenly he received an anonymous message. He opened it and immediately in his computer screen appeared insults and phrases like "I WILL HIT YOU". He was suffering cyberbullying

In that moment Timmy didn't have friends and also, he wasn't so popular in his school. He had a lot of stress and became very fat. He was scared and he didn't dare to say anyone that he was suffering cyberbullying.

One day, her mum went into his room and saw insults and threatens on the computer screen . She immediately called the police and reported the bully that had written these insults .

The police came into his house, searched his account and found the abuser. They took him to the police station.
